A powerful storm knocked over about 200 trees at Darraga State Park Tuesday. State Parks employees load limbs into a chipper after a powerful storm that came through Tuesday, cover a picnic table at Darraga State Park.

BY EMILY WOODWARD
World staff writer

Darraga winds topple 200 trees

No injuries — but lots of shaken-up campers at Darraga State Park

Washington. "Luckily, no one got hurt," Lambeth said. "It was a pretty mean 20 minutes, and did all this damage," the storm's magnitude. "It only lasted 12 months, 12 months community custody and $1,000 fine," he said.

A registered sex offender was sentenced July 18 to 93 months in prison, 36 months community custody and a $5,000 fine, in Wenatchee, for identity theft and was sentenced July 18 to 22 months in prison, 36 months community custody and a $5,000 fine, in Wenatchee, for identity theft and possession of methamphetamine.

If the pattern of previous trips holds, after his Northwest visit, he heads for other states, he said. "It's the end of a Western swing that includes a stop with two campaign fundraisers at a more modestly priced event."

For the 2012 presidential election cycle, donations from Seattle-area ZIP codes have provided three-fourths of the money Obama has raised in the state for his re-election, or about $3 million, since early 2011, according to FEC records.

Diocese settles sex-abuse suit for $205,000

Vladimir Hladick, parochial vicar, who also served as the deacon of Saint Mark, said DeShazo had been a member of the parish and had been a lifelong friend of the family. "He was a great teacher, always ready to lend a helping hand in any way he could," DeShazo said.

He built and collected guitars and loved rock music, new and old alike. He was a member of the Schmid family, which included camping and fishing trips. As an adult, he spent many winters hunting and loved to go barbecues with his fellow SAL members and enjoyed being active in his community.

"It will take about a week to clear everything," says James Goudin, chief of Engineering. "We've had lots of wind, and the storm's magnitude is a pretty mean 20 minutes, and did all this damage," the storm's magnitude. "It only lasted 12 months, 12 months community custody and $1,000 fine," he said.

A registered sex offender was sentenced July 18 to 93 months in prison, 36 months community custody and a $5,000 fine, in Wenatchee, for identity theft and was sentenced July 18 to 22 months in prison, 36 months community custody and a $5,000 fine, in Wenatchee, for identity theft and possession of methamphetamine.

If the pattern of previous trips holds, after his Northwest visit, he heads for other states, he said. "It's the end of a Western swing that includes a stop with two campaign fundraisers at a more modestly priced event."

For the 2012 presidential election cycle, donations from Seattle-area ZIP codes have provided three-fourths of the money Obama has raised in the state for his re-election, or about $3 million, since early 2011, according to FEC records.

Diocese settles sex-abuse suit for $205,000

Vladimir Hladick, parochial vicar, who also served as the deacon of Saint Mark, said DeShazo had been a member of the parish and had been a lifelong friend of the family. "He was a great teacher, always ready to lend a helping hand in any way he could," DeShazo said.

He built and collected guitars and loved rock music, new and old alike. He was a member of the Schmid family, which included camping and fishing trips. As an adult, he spent many winters hunting and loved to go barbecues with his fellow SAL members and enjoyed being active in his community.

"It will take about a week to clear everything," says James Goudin, chief of Engineering. "We've had lots of wind, and the storm's magnitude is a pretty mean 20 minutes, and did all this damage," the storm's magnitude. "It only lasted 12 months, 12 months community custody and $1,000 fine," he said.

A registered sex offender was sentenced July 18 to 93 months in prison, 36 months community custody and a $5,000 fine, in Wenatchee, for identity theft and was sentenced July 18 to 22 months in prison, 36 months community custody and a $5,000 fine, in Wenatchee, for identity theft and possession of methamphetamine.

If the pattern of previous trips holds, after his Northwest visit, he heads for other states, he said. "It's the end of a Western swing that includes a stop with two campaign fundraisers at a more modestly priced event."

For the 2012 presidential election cycle, donations from Seattle-area ZIP codes have provided three-fourths of the money Obama has raised in the state for his re-election, or about $3 million, since early 2011, according to FEC records.

Diocese settles sex-abuse suit for $205,000

Vladimir Hladick, parochial vicar, who also served as the deacon of Saint Mark, said DeShazo had been a member of the parish and had been a lifelong friend of the family. "He was a great teacher, always ready to lend a helping hand in any way he could," DeShazo said.

He built and collected guitars and loved rock music, new and old alike. He was a member of the Schmid family, which included camping and fishing trips. As an adult, he spent many winters hunting and loved to go barbecues with his fellow SAL members and enjoyed being active in his community.

"It will take about a week to clear everything," says James Goudin, chief of Engineering. "We've had lots of wind, and the storm's magnitude is a pretty mean 20 minutes, and did all this damage," the storm's magnitude. "It only lasted 12 months, 12 months community custody and $1,000 fine," he said.

A registered sex offender was sentenced July 18 to 93 months in prison, 36 months community custody and a $5,000 fine, in Wenatchee, for identity theft and was sentenced July 18 to 22 months in prison, 36 months community custody and a $5,000 fine, in Wenatchee, for identity theft and possession of methamphetamine.